PUBLIC MULCTED ON PURCHASES FROM COUPON COMPANIES

you can get from the coupon company an "Ever-Ready" safety razor with 12 "Radio" steel blades, for 250 coupons (50 certificates), equivalent, according to the company, to one dollar in cash; and you can buy the same thing at Macy's for 94 cents—a difference of only six cents. But, for a "Fire-side Wing Rocking Chair," covered with genuine brown Spanish or black leather, or fine tapestry; back 29 inches high from seat; finest steel springs; filling topped with curled hair, solid mahogany legs, you will have to give up 9,500 coupons (or 1,900 certificates) which the company counts the equivalent of $38 in cash; and Macy's will sell you the same chair for $18.74, which is less than half the price exacted by the coupon company, and means an excess profit to that corporation of $19.26 on this single article.

Here, arranged in tabulated form are other price comparisons obtained from T. H. Macy & Co.

These figures speak more convincingly than any comment could do. In fact, comment is entirely unnecessary. If the department stores can make a satisfactory profit and prosper at the prices they charge, is it any wonder that the coupon companies flourish like the grass of the earth?

As has been said above, the United Profit-Sharing Corporation is typical of all the coupon concerns, typical of this whole cancerous poison with which, as Mr. Louis Brandeis has pointed out, the tobacco interests have infected American business. Similar comparisons, for instance, of the prices charged for their premiums by the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company, and by the American Tobacco Company, with the prices asked by leading department stores for the same articles, show just about the same excess charges by the tobacco companies. On some articles the coupon price figures out exactly the same as that of the United Corporation; on others there will be a variation of a fraction either upward or downward but throughout an extended list of goods the excess over department store prices will be found to keep pretty close to the same high average.

Whereas the United Cigar Stores Company has always listed the premiums it offers as "profit-sharing articles," Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company and the American Tobacco Company go further in their attempt to convey the impression that they give something for nothing, and call the articles they list in their premium catalogs "Presents offered for tobacco coupons."

The coupons of these companies have different values; there are "half-coupons," "whole coupons," and "one and one-half coupons." According to their own representation, each whole coupon (which is given with a ten-cent purchase of tobacco) has no redemption value of one cent in cash. On this basis, the adjoining table of comparisons of Liggett & Myers and the American Tobacco Company's prices for the same articles provides further proof of just what the coupon concerns are doing.

On the face of it, isn't this coupon system just about the most colossal scheme ever devised for getting more for merchandise than it is worth?

And, is it not perfectly evident, beyond the peradventure of a doubt, that he who is induced to buy anything to get the coupons packed therewith, and "cashes in" those coupons for any of the premiums so alluringly offered by the coupon companies, is not by any means getting something for nothing, but in fact is paying high for what he gets—paying vastly more than it is worth?

The coupon companies might answer: "Well, suppose our 'redemption value' prices are higher than the department stores charge for the same goods—the man who turns in the coupons gets his safety razor, or his rocking chair. He gets the goods for the coupons."

To be sure he does, but first he has paid, and paid high, for the coupons in the original purchase of merchandise, and since he pays twice before the whole transaction is completed he pays exorbitant prices for everything he gets by the coupon system.

The unsophisticated but greedy old farmer who goes to the city and buys a "gold" brick, gets a brick all right, and it may make a pretty glittering ornament in his "garage" man-board. But the confidence man has got the farmer's money.

Mr. Dooley was right!
